🪨 Rock Art: Leader's Guide

Activity 4, Rock Sculptures (guide p. 48). Every child picks one of eight designs, glues the pattern to cardboard, and puts a rock on every dotted circle. No tracing and no drawing: a 4-year-old can follow the circles by themselves. Every picture is about something God made or promised, so it ties to today's theme and to the class.

How to run it (12 minutes)

1. Before class: show the children page 2 (or send it to the parents' WhatsApp group) and let each child pick. Print their pattern on cardstock and write their name on it. Glue each pattern to a square of shipping-box cardboard (20 × 20 cm / 8 × 8 in) with a glue stick. Let it dry overnight.
2. Sort rocks into three trays by size: big (about 2.5 cm), medium (about 1.5 cm), small (about 1 cm), plus a cup of gravel. The circles on the page are true size, so the children can hold a rock over a circle to check.
3. In class: spread tacky glue over one small area at a time (a few circles), then press a rock on each circle and count to 5.
4. Big circles = big rocks, small circles = small rocks. Fill the gaps with gravel or sand if they want.
5. Finish with the extras (googly eyes, twigs, cotton balls, glitter glue), then name it and lay it flat to dry.

How every child's piece stays unique and beautiful

- They choose the design, and with eight to pick from, a class of ten will have lots of variety. Match the ★ level to the child: ★ designs suit a younger or less patient child, ★★★ an eager one.
- They choose the colours. Pre-paint rocks the week before (bright acrylic craft paint) in 6–8 colours, or let them paint rocks in class and place them next week. A tree can be summer green or autumn red, orange and gold. A rainbow can go in any order they like!
- They add one "special" rock: a crystal, a gold stone or a heart-shaped pebble for the star's centre, the sun's middle or the lamb's face.
- The light colour on each circle is only a suggestion, so any colour is right.

> Glue reality: heavy rocks slide on tacky glue while it's wet. Keep the board flat, use flat-bottomed rocks, and pre-glue the big ones with a glue gun (adult only) if you have one. Send them home flat, or keep them a week to dry.
